

Sandy Bird
IBM Fellow, CTO for IBM Security

Sandy Bird was the co-founder and CTO of Q1 Labs, now part of IBM.

Today, he's the CTO for IBM Security and is responsible for the company's strategic technology direction.

Sandy has extensive technology experience specializing in database design and development for web applications.

Prior to IBM and Q1 Labs, he held a variety of technical positions at the University of New Brunswick in support, development and administration.

Sandy studied Electrical Engineering at the University of New Brunswick and was named an IBM Fellow in 2014.